DETAILED ACTION

1. This communication is responsive to the Amendment filed 9/29/2004.
2. Claims 1-28 are pending in this application. Claims 1, 14, 21 and 28 are independent claims. In the Amendment, claim 28 was added, and claims 1, 4, 6-11, 13-1, 17, 19-21, 24 and 26-27 were amended. This action is made Final.
3. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

5. Claims 1-5, 14-18, 21-25 and 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Humpleman et al. ("Humpleman", US 6,603,488 B2).

As per claims 1-3, Humpleman teaches an information processing apparatus, comprising:
a menu storage unit storing characteristic menu information corresponding to applications (fig. 8; col. 19, line 65 – col. 20, line 30; menu 712 corresponding to various control applications which are associated with the devices such as "Dads TV" and "Jims DVD"); and a menu development unit discriminating whether one of the applications is started and displaying a menu corresponding to the started application on a screen using said menu information, a menu execution unit executing a processing corresponding to a menu item selected from said menu, wherein if the application for which said menu information exists is started, the application is activated (figs. 8 and 10; col. 15, lines 30 – col. 16, line 7; control application for “Dads TV” is selected/started, and a corresponding menu 804 is displayed with various menu items such as “Channel” and “Volume” which could be selected for processing).

As per claims 4-5, Humpleman teaches said menu development unit to display a on the screen if no application is started, wherein said predetermined menu is a launcher menu for starting the applications (fig. 8; predetermined menu 710 is displayed if none of the applications 712 is started).

Claims 14-18 are similar in scope to claims 1-5 respectively, and are therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claims 21-25 and 28 are similar in scope to claims 1-5 and 1 respectively, and are therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. Claims 6, 19 and 26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Humpleman et al. (“Humpleman”, US 6,603,488 B2).

As per claim 6, Humpleman teaches the display of a menu 710 and a number of menu items 712 therein (fig. 8), but does not teach if a menu item is selected from said menu, the menu is deleted from the screen. Official Notice is taken that such a feature is well known in the art. It would have been obvious to an artisan at the time of the invention to combine such a feature with the teaching of Humpleman in order to increase screen display area for the display of the subsequent screen.

Claims 19 and 26 are individually similar in scope to claim 6, and are therefore rejected under similar rationale.

7. Claims 7-13, 20 and 27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Humpleman et al. ("Humpleman", US 6,603,488 B2) in view of Higuchi (JP-01100620).

As per claims 7, 12 and 13, Humpleman does not explicitly disclose an indication unit indicating display of said menu, and said menu development unit to discriminate the started application if an indication of said indication unit is detected, wherein said indication unit is provided in front of a keyboard; and wherein the processing apparatus comprises a cover on which a display is arranged, a main body on which said keyboard is arranged and a coupling section coupling the cover to the main body. However, all of these components/features when used in conjunction with a portable personal computer (PC) are known in the art. For instance, Higuchi teaches a portable computer having these components and features (fig. 1; page 1, last para. – page 2, first para.). It would have been obvious to an artisan at the time of the invention to equip Humpleman's apparatus with these components/features in order to provide portability as well as to allow users with compact/efficient means for making menu selections and for proper arrangements of the components on the computing device.

As per claim 8-9, Higuchi teaches said indication unit to be a device consisting of a scroll up/down buttons for changing selection of the menu item from said menu and defined button for determining the selected menu item, wherein said defined button is operated to thereby indicate the display of said menu (fig. 1; keys 3-6 and 7).

Art Unit: 2174

As per claims 10-11, all claimed features regarding the arrangement of the defined button as well as the scroll up/down buttons being a seesaw switch are well known in the art. It would have been obvious to an artisan at the time of the invention to include such features with Higuchi's apparatus in order to provide convenient and efficient means for navigating through as well as selecting menu options.

Claims 20 and 27 are individually similar in scope to claims 7, and are therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Response to Arguments

8. Applicant's arguments with respect to the amended independent claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

The Examiner agrees that Higuchi does not disclose the claim limitations. Rather, the claims have been rejected in view of Humpleman and Higuchi.

Conclusion

9. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
